From the Dean

Happy St. Patrick's Day,

I've stumbled upon some great resources this year in looking for new music that I thought I'd share this month. It is easy for us to get stuck playing the same repertoire every year, and we don't get a lot of opportunities to hear new music that is accessible and appropriate for services. Sara Bereza is a young music minister and organist from St. Luis who puts out some great online content through a blog and podcasts (<https://sarah-bereza.com/about/>). I came across her podcast "Music and the Church", that addresses a lot of issues and shares some great music ministry ideas. In conjunction with the Organ Media Foundation, Sara is also part of a new youtube channel called "Your Sunday Service", that uploads weekly recordings of some great service music. Check it out! What are some of your go-to online resources?
